What do Psychiatric Social Workers do?

We work with clients with severe mental illnesses that causes significant distress in their lives. This includes: hospitalizations, unstable housing and difficulties with finances and daily living skills.

As social workers, we advocate for clients to receive the necessary support, services and resources they need to achieve the life they strive for in the community.

“Alone we can do so little; together we can do so much”. -Helen Keller.

Be a part of an active learning environment, building your professional skills as a social work intern with Alameda County Behavioral Health Care Services!

Work on a diverse team with psychiatric social workers, mental health specialists, psychiatrists and a nurse providing culturally competent services to the mentally ill population!
