About the Course

This introductory workshop will familiarize you with the spirit, principles and basic techniques of Motivational Interviewing (MI). MI is a client centered, goal directed, guiding style of therapeutic communication developed by Drs. Bill Miller and Steve Rollnick to help people motivate themselves to change problem behavior. MI involves learning to use simple but powerful techniques that help to quickly establish a productive working relationship with clients, allowing them to explore their own motivation, ambivalence, and resistance to change and to efficiently guide them toward more desirable behavior. The effectiveness of MI has been demonstrated in a variety of settings with many different types of clients and is considered to be an "evidence based" practice. Through lecture, interactive exercises, role-play, video, and case examples will be used.

About the Presenter

Jennifer Baity is a licensed clinical social worker and licensed advanced alcohol and drug counselor. She is the Program Director at the Mental Health Rehabilitation Center on the Zuckerberg San Francisco General Hospital campus. During her over 20 years there she has provided staff and intern supervision and training; individual, group, and family treatment for adults with serious and persistent mental illness who also have problematic substance use histories; and co-developed the co-occurring disorders (dual diagnosis) program at the San Francisco Behavioral Health Center. She has provided in-depth training to clinicians providing services to youth and adults since 1991 and regularly trains staff in mental health and substance abuse programs throughout the San Francisco Bay Area and beyond. She specializes in training on diagnosis and treatment of individuals with co-occurring mental health and substance use conditions and motivational interviewing.
