INTENDED FOR:

Alameda County Behavioral Health and contracted provider staff

About the Course

This Training offers a comprehensive overview for counselors and therapists on topics related to assessing and treating people with co-occurring disorders (CODs). Attendees will leave with confidence that they understand the basics of how to counsel their clients who struggle with these issues. Many programs and services are not designed to handle the specific needs of individuals with co-occurring disorders, which can lead to a chronic cycle of program entry, exit and re-entry. Learn which of your clients are at highest risk for COD and how you can utilize evidence-based practices in your practice to help them recover. This training will also cover harm reduction, relapse prevention, mental health and substance abuse. Your case examples will be used to assist you with clients you currently serve.

*Full time of training: 9:00 AM-5:00 PM, 8 hours
Instructional time: 6.5 hours
Non-instructional time: 1.5 hours*

Educational Objectives

Attendees will be able to:

- Describe at least one reason why an evidence-based screening tool for substance use disorders is an important part of a clinical assessment
- Name at least 4 different evidence-based treatment models that are effective for adults with CODs
- Describe at least one way how CODs impact Black, Latinx, Native American and Asian, transitional age youth, and older adults differently

About the Presenter

Jennifer Baity is a Trainer, Consultant, Licensed Clinical Social Worker, and Licensed Advanced Alcohol and Drug Counselor. She was the Program Director at the Mental Health Rehabilitation Center on the Zuckerberg San Francisco General Hospital campus from 2000 to 2021. She provided staff supervision and training; oversaw and provided individual, group, and family treatment for adults with serious and persistent mental illness who also had problematic substance use histories; and co-developed the co-occurring disorders (dual diagnosis) program at the San Francisco Behavioral Health Center. She supervised social work interns for almost 20 years from UC Berkeley, SF State, and CSU Sacramento. She has provided in-depth training to clinicians providing services to youth and adults since 1991 and regularly train staff in mental health and substance use disorder programs throughout the San Francisco Bay Area and beyond. She particularly specializes in training on the diagnosis and treatment of individuals with co-occurring mental health and substance-related disorders and motivational interviewing.
