

The Crooked Room:

Racism, Adversity, and African American Health

Description:

This workshop addresses the relationship between structural racism and adverse experiences on African Americans. Special attention will be paid to the role of policy-making and community engagement strategies in undoing the deleterious effects of systemic racism and heal African Americans and communities. This training meets the National CLAS Standards 11) Collect and maintain accurate and reliable demographic data to monitor and evaluate the impact of CLAS on health equity and outcomes and to inform service delivery; 13) Partner with the community to design, implement and evaluate policies, practices and services to ensure cultural and linguistic appropriateness

Learning Objectives:

- Objective 1: State two population level health outcomes due to structural racism.
- Objective 2: Name two engagement strategies that are effective in increasing AA participation in treatment services.
- Objective 3: Identify one key difference between “specified risk factors” and ACES scores.
